

Certify

Districts are often challenged in their ability to submit complete and accurate information to their state education agencies. Certify™ and the CertifySIRS Rule Library™ allows New York school districts to easily validate, monitor and maintain the quality of the data in their administrative systems to the standard defined by the NYSED Level 0 validations – on a daily basis.

The CertifySIRS Rule Library is Certica’s set of SIRS validation rules that have been configured and tested jointly by Certica Solutions and four Regional Information Centers in New York. The validation rules check for data that is incomplete, inaccurate or otherwise expected to compromise a district’s Level 0 data submission. The CertifySIRS Rule Library includes hundreds of validation rules, and is based directly on the most up-to-date data specifications published by the New York State Education Department.

The CertifySIRS Rule Library supports a highly automated, user friendly process for checking data at any time, to:

- Give your district a high level of confidence in your ability to submit complete and accurate data to the NYSED.
- Identify incomplete, inconsistent and inaccurate data, as well as gaps or weaknesses in your state reporting processes.
- Provide a detailed inventory of data issues that need to be addressed in your information systems.
- Reduce the time that district and school personnel spend reviewing, reconciling and correcting data issues prior to submission periods.
- Provide your schools a self-service ability to review their data.
- Maximize funding by ensuring accurate coding for all students, programs, courses and services.

CertifySIRS validates data to Level 0 domains, including:
